

Dear FCC Staff, I think that code testing should continue to be required. It is the best means to get the message through when conditions are bad, or there is lots of interference. I believe that knowing code makes for a better operator. I do agree with three classes of license. However I do not feel the beginner class should be able to operate on 80,40, and 15 meters. These bands are already crowded. Ten meters and higher is fine for the beginner. 73
